THE BEE, EARLINGTON, KY.
THURSDAY, June 1, 1905

The summer girl in season lacks only the opportunity.

Our Legislature is still in session—at least it is all appearances.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND will have an extra session of Congress some time in September, so he says.

As far as reported, the bold confidence men did not work the Press gang in Chicago. The reasons are plain.

One thing man can do if he tries; he can hold up an express train. Missouri singledhanded, and secure more money than he can carry, then depart unharmed.

JAMES J. DUBOSE of the Memphis Criminal Court has been degraded and disqualified to hold office. He had been found guilty of playing the ruse.

JOS. G. CARLISLE is already being nominated for the Presidency. The nomination is yet to be secured. All this is rather early, but what does Grover say?

SURELY it cannot be that the millionaires who supported Cleveland and contributed to the democratic corruption of the last campaign are in favor of an income tax.

MUELLERBERG county's tax problem is settled, and Editor Andleigh of the Central City Republican, is now free from stem to stern, or his utterances in the last issue of the paper are for naught.

It is to be remembered that Mr. Cleveland once remarked, "It is a condition and not a theory that confronts us." A very unsettled condition of things that confronts us.

KUTTAWA is anxious to become the capital of Lyon County. Ed-dyville, the present county seat, is naturally desirous to make kindly to the aspirations of its near and progressive neighbor. If the matter is voted upon soon it is claimed the Kuttawwa will secure the much coveted prize.

BRO. BERRY, of the New Haven Echo, has secured a new press and enlarged his paper to an eight-page, five-column sheet, which is neatly gotten up and packed with good reading matter. If the good people of Nelson County will give Brother Berry the same kindly and richly deserved, and which they can so easily afford, we will guarantee that he will give them a paper as large as a mainail.

WHATEVER may be the outcome of the Bering Sea arbitration, the moral value of the tribunal will not be lost. When two nations as proud and powerful as Great Britain and the United States are willing to leave to the arbitration of courts what once would have been decided only by arms, other countries can not plead that rational dignity will not permit them to settle their grievance of a similar character in the same way.—Boston Transcript.

CLIPPING AND COMMENTS.

Josiah Miller, living near Rockport, lost a fine horse last Friday by its falling into a well.—Hartford Republican.

And as a consequence, of course, it "kicked the bucket!"

The Mahlenberger and Earlington Bee believe in reciprocity. For instance, the Bee, in exchange for paper made from the Greenville mill, gives the latter a quart of lard, which is shipped through the teeth at the Cadiz Express. The Mahlenberger would do better to copy news from the Bee's "mugger column." However, this affords them the opportunity to exercise their gits as they are prompted by nature to do. They are like the geese, whose vision extends downward; and as the Telephone occurs to a top hat, they have no fears of being lost by them. We are sorry to have to say this.—Cadiz Telephone.

If the Telephone will apply a hot brick to its equinoctial region, take an adult's dose of castor oil, and court temporary exclusion, its temper and condition would be greatly improved. Adopt this plan, and let's hear from you.

The State press just now seems to be unanimous in the opinion that the Legislature has passed its day of usefulness. It has paid very little else. Owsenboro Messenger.

The Legislature doesn't "pass." It stays and "draws," as the Treasury can certify.—Courier Journal.

Holding it as does a high hand of per diem and mileage it seems to make its "ante good" and "stands pat."

An Iowa editor who employs girls as compositors on his paper lately noted that very little type was set on several mornings in the week, and upon investigation found they had been entertaining beaux until a late hour on the previous evening. He issued a peremptory order that every girl in his employ should retire at 9:30 every evening. Result?—The next morning the editor is vainly seeking a compromise.—Bath County World.

Two conclusions can be deduced from the foregoing: first, the editor committed a serious typographical error in issuing such a stringent order; second, the girls seem determined to boy-coot the editor.

There is some truth in palmistry as a science. Thus a young fellow can get a pretty girl to give him her hand he can tell the name of his future husband.—Henderson Gleaner.

To rescue an antiquated paragraph from oblivion, we reproduce the above from a conspicuous editorial position in the Henderson Gleaner. We would have it get lost or mislaid, as it possesses great value on account of its age, there being every reason to believe that Noah originated it to entertain his family on days when was too wet to go out. Our brethren of Hawaii will kindly assist in its circulation.

REV. W. B. JONES has a cat that is nursing a mixed litter composed of several kittens and a mouse. The mouse nurses the same as the kittens and is treated by the cat just as she treats the kittens.—Paris Post Intelligence.

The reverend gentleman should, by all means, turn his efforts to making this mouse and the lion lie together, which is the same thing on a larger scale, and could be easily accomplished by the same reckless dealing with veracity.

A Minnesota man pays his subscription to his town paper every time he gets on a spree, and is well paid up 1907. The Kentucky Press Association, while attending the World's Fair, will send a committee out to Minnesota to learn the value of the brand of whiskey the man drinks so he can be introduced into Kentucky.—Jesseman.

It seems that the Press boys are determined to introduce a new kind of intoxication into this commonwealth, which seems to be of the most pay-in-full type.

The editor of the Earlington Bee is off with the press gang and the office boy is now writing long and winding editorials on Easter Sunday and how it should be observed.—Owsenboro Inquirer.

The editor of The Bee is not off with the press gang, fact, never gets "off." Our office boy is fully competent to write on Easter Sunday and its observance. Such a boy in the Inquirer office would be a valuable acquisition to that paper and perhaps might obviate the labors of Sam Jones in this city.

Some of the people in this part of the State, which is an idea that it is the legislature that has been turned into an insane asylum instead of the free Peckle Mind Institute.—Grand Rivers Herald.

We have no such idea up here, for it is a conceded fact that the inmates of the insane asylum are invariably dissatisfied with their surroundings and long to leave, but the solons are perfectly contented and each one seems to have forgotten he ever had a home.

Mr. R. A. Hale killed a blue one day last week. This city 36 inches long and its legs 24 inches from the feet to the body.—May-Monitor.

A careful study of the foregoing justifies the conclusion that the bird in question was composed entirely of cock and legs. Will the Monitor please state if a body in question between the component parts mentioned, they have a little body to this story.

If the Court-house boys would all "chick in," buy which is the new or (borrow or save) the "chick in" for something else. Court-house boys, they would have good appetites for supper, and the yard would be greatly lessened thereby. They do not wish to be dictatorial, but merely throw out this gentle reminder as a first-class constitutional. What can you say?—Told County Times.

This is nothing more or less than an invitation to the "Court-house boys" to "go to grass."

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 8, 1905.

The concert pitch at which social Washington kept during the past week of the presence of the governments' royal guests in the city has been replaced by the inevitable very little else. Owsenboro Messenger.

Fair. As most matter of fact people expected, there was no difficulty in the entertainment of the Infanta Eleonora. Inspected from the distance of a week or two all the excitement and worry that were manifested as to the courtesies to be shown her take on a cash thing that does not harmonize with the public and the Infanta. The princess proved herself to be a woman of sense as well as of culture, too well-bred to insist on or desire any departure from the customs of the country on her account. To most representatives of European nobility the democratic spirit of this country is a matter of interest and respect. When we allow any flutter of anxiety as to whether we can properly entertain a princess of rank, and proceed to an ostentatious inspection of our "company man," we cease to be honestly respectable.

It is noticeable in government circles that the "condition of the treasury" has almost ceased to be a topic of active conversation. The "gold reserve" has been treasured upon and has been treasured upon again, but the treasury is dead to the agony. Clerks have quit their desks to stand in the corridors and discuss the gravity of the "financial situation." In the Treasury Department there is but a general feeling of gloom.

The vast and complex machinery of the government appears to be running along with a noiseless efficiency. The only thing that breaks into the steady hum is the occasional plink of a division chief's head falling into the waste basket.

By those best able to know of what they speak, it is said that the Hawaiian Islands remain unchanged so far as any active interference by this Government is concerned. The "provisional government" will remain so, as it is able to maintain itself. If the people become dissatisfied with the present government, they will be quiet and legal means, nothing will be said or done upon this edge of the Pacific.

Mr. Mount on the ground against all proper balance wheel. Well-informed politicians say that nothing in the nature of a revolution is contemplated by the administration; that the question of assuming a protectorate remains in abeyance until the next meeting of Congress.

In his message to that body Mr. Cleveland will take strong exception to the fact that the time any encroachment by its powers will be promptly resisted.

Probably the most important recent decision ever issued from the office of the Secretary of the Interior to the Commissioner of Pensions has just been made. It is believed that it will reduce the payment of pensions under the act of June 27, 1890, from $15,000 to $10,000.

It seems that the Press boys are determined to introduce a new kind of intoxication into this commonwealth, which seems to be of the most pay-in-full type.

The editor of the Earlington Bee is off with the press gang and the office boy is now writing long and winding editorials on Easter Sunday and how it should be observed.—Owsenboro Inquirer.

ers along the line, when the wire went down.

One of our sporting men made a bet of five to one last week that the L. & N. had our world in the N. & M.

To accommodate the growing business at Henderson, a new silting, running to a large lumber factory, is being put in there this week.

Even the poor tramp won't make much showing on this division line, can't find a ride when he won't stop for him to get on at stations.

Business of the N. & M. & B. Railroad is the N. & M. & B. Railroad. The general opinion is that such a deal will be consummated. If not already the case.

Eleven people injured by a week on the N. & C. road last Friday. A passenger coach rolled down an embankment thirty feet high.

Conductors Travis and Cobb are the lucky men who have captured the new fast trains, upon which they will run as conductors.

The chief topic of discussion among the travelers as well as the railroad men is these new fast flyers, put on last Sunday night. Only two regular stops for them, Louisville and Earlington.

The following clipping from the Kansas City Journal is here inserted for the good of mankind:

Train on Santa Fe Express.
In Kansas, one bright day.
A cat had quite a way.
One many shoulder lay.
The situation was, to seem.
To be looking to catch.
When, when one was looking, they
And, when they were, they were
What of it? We were asked.

Taking the country as a whole the interest in the new fast flyers is on the railroad. In the year 1901, according to statistics in "The Railway," the gross earnings of all the steam railroads in the United States were $1,125,551,515, and their net earnings $519,802,371, while the interest paid on bonds amounted to $222,823,396. Here is an evidence of the gross earnings of all the steam railroads which their interest charges constitute. Rates for interest, it is true, are decreasing for the railroads as well as for the Government, but not in the same proportion. The railroads are called upon to pay a rate of 4.66 per cent on average in 1901, 4.77 per cent in 1902, 4.88 per cent in 1903, 4.99 per cent in 1904, 5.10 per cent in 1905, 5.21 per cent in 1906, 5.32 They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:
